Title I Parent Involvement Policy

To guarantee student success, a partnership between school and home is vital for the success of your child. To be a successful citizen in this global society it is critical for the staff at Davis Elementary to provide rigorous instruction to produce a quality education. You, parents, are our first line of defense, your child's first teacher. In knowing this, keeping constant communication with your child's teacher is essential for the effectiveness of our program.

At Davis Elementary, a written notice will be given to students identified as needing improvement in certain academic areas. Monthly activities are scheduled throughout the school year to inform parents, encourage their continued involvement and to develop lifelong relationships between parents and the school. The faculty of Davis Elementary takes seriously the commitment to involve parents and the community totally in educating the whole child. Our school has established a PARENT INVOLVEMENT POLICY. This policy assures parents that their feedback will be required on the school's performance and lists specific ways in which our parents can and will be involved. To maximize the success of our students, ongoing monthly meetings will be conducted in conjunction with our Parent Resource Center.

- Parents are requested to sign and adhere to the Home School Compact distributed to our parents. The expectations and responsibilities of all partners are referenced, reviewed and reinforced throughout the school year during meetings, conferences for assurance.
- Bi-annual parent surveys are conducted. The results are categorized based on their concerns.
- Communication occurs through: student agendas/planners, the school's newsletter, teacher correspondence, School Messenger phone calls, and the school marquee and website.
- Title I Parent Orientation is held at the beginning of the year to orient parents on Title I Requirements and parent involvement.
- PTO and PTO Boards meet a minimum of four times per year.
- An Open House and Curriculum Night are held at the beginning of the year to orient parents on academic and social expectations.
- Parent Teacher Conferences are advocated to discuss students' academic strengths and areas of improvement.
